SMILING DEMOCRACY'S BIG DAY DAWNS IN TEXAS

Group of Smith boosters in Smith headquarters preparing for the convention. Norman E. Mack, committeeman from Buffalo; former Ambassador James Gerard, A. C. Gray, committeeman from Delaware; back row, Howard Cullinan and George C. Norton, assistants to Manager Van Namee.

Mrs. Sofia Fritts of Kansas City, Mo., the only woman preacher at the convention. She will do all she can for Senator James A. Reed from her own state.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy, in his suite at the Rice Hotel. He will nominate Governor Smith as the Democratic standard bearer.

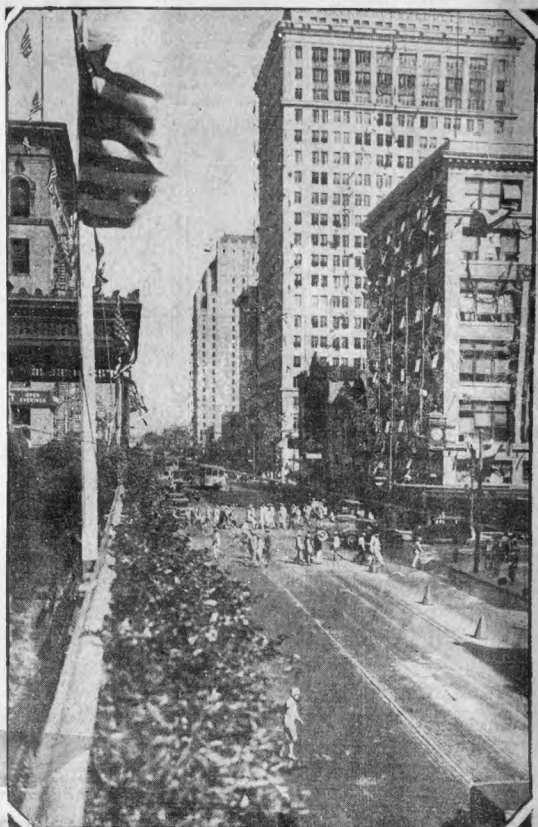

Gov. Al Smith has much to smile about, for his friends are proving he cannot be stopped. He likely will be nominated Thursday.

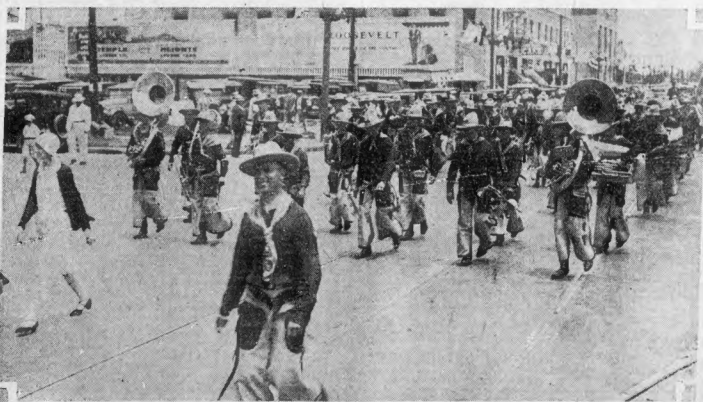

Nellie L. Sullivan of Fall River, who is to be the next national committeewoman from Massachusetts.

Ex-Mayor Andrew J. Peters of Boston, who will make the first speech seconding Smith's nomination.

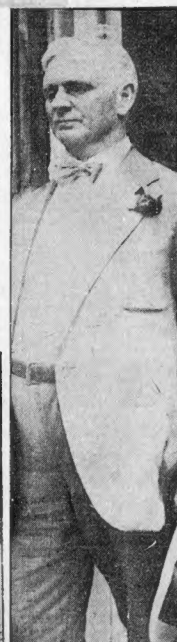

Showing Texas ave., in Houston, where the flags on the draped buildings flutter in the breeze as the city puts on the finishing touches in preparation for the opening of the big convention.

Here is the famous "Old Gray Mare Band" leading the parade which marked the arrival of Senator T. H. Caraway and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas. The band, composed of cowboys from that State, was dressed in cowboy uniforms of red shirts and white chaps. They made a big hit as they marched through the streets, and stirred up more enthusiasm for Senator Robinson, who is one of the favorites for second place on the ticket.

George E. Van Namee, pre-convention manager for Gov. Smith, is having a busy time at Houston.

1928 EVANGELINE CHARMS WINFRED BLACK

Following is the eighth installment of Winfred Black's series, "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

By WINFRED BLACK

(Copyright, 1928, by Examiner Printing Company. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

New Orleans, La., June 25.—We dined with Evangeline. Yes, that's her name. The first Evangeline came down from the French settlements in Canada years and years ago and Gabriel was looking for her, don't you remember?

I don't know whether Gabriel found her in the poem or not, but in real life he did, for they are married and built a house of sweet smelling cedar and now their descendants here live with the rest of the Acadians down by the rolling water below New Orleans.

"Cajuns," they call them here, and a strange, strange, even kindly, poetic people they are. And how they live—it's like stepping into a book one hundred years old to pass a day with a Cajun family down on the Grand Island.

Grand Island is an old-time of an old English book of poems. It is all pink and white with giant oaks there and where there are no oaks, there are oaks—great, impossible fellows that can shelter a regiment. We saw dozens of oaks down there, each one making the shade for almost an acre.

And beyond the oaks and the oaks the surf sings on the beach and it brought in, for our wonder and delectation, coconuts from far shores.

A WONDER PLACE

A wonderful place to live down there with the Cajuns in their old oaks houses that smell exactly like the bright chest you sent to the bride.

And the fine dinner that we had—was a sort of that—children and ham and stuffed peppers and not only that, but shrimp and chicken gumbo, and omelette, or was it not omelette? Oh, they live well, these Cajuns and Evangeline certainly knows how to cook.

And if the whole United States Navy tried to patrol that bayou it could not keep out the run runners—not with all those little boats and out of the bayou, and they say that if you know the right people you can get good French modish and muslin, yes, even champagne and cognac, at certain favorite spots down on the bayou.

Jean, the favorite brother of Evangeline, laughed when we spoke to him of money.

"Mer!" said Jean, "why should I engage myself concerning money? What shall I do with it, here on the bayou?" In the evening I sat on my front steps and aim at every sort of duck that flies—red birds

HIS NEAR NEIGHBORS

"And from my back porch I can catch each time the separate fish in its season, the pompano, so delicate, the red snapper, so firm, and when I would like a little shrimp I throw out my nets and voilà! There they are all ready for the boiling pot."

"Oysters, crabs—they are my near neighbors, and it is easy for me to pay them a visit."

"In my little garden I raise always the garlic, the cotton, the tomato, the green pepper, I have a little rice at my hand, I raise a pig or two and for the comfort and sustenance of the family, there is always a small flock of chickens. We do not worry for shelter, for food or for fun, or for shade or for flowers, as you see, we Cajuns."

"For what should we worry ourselves with rents and bills and always the tax collector, and somebody to be elected?—Puff! I snap my finger to the wind, and the world is turned on me a shoulder."

"The surf sings at night and tells me the tales of lands far over the sea. The wind in the good fellow. He sings for me and the old oaks nod their heads and listen. Ah, yes! It is true I sometimes think I should like to mount in the air and fly to one of those big air ships to blither and to see, but we have never yet lived long enough—there is too much here at Grand Island to hold me."

Evangeline's favorite brother, Jean, is a personable young man and by his every conscious glance at a ring on his left hand, it was quite easy to guess why it was that he wanted to leave Grand Island even to fly high in the air to one of the big air ships.

Near the cedar houses, where we dined, there lives a family of artists. All young and everyone of them pretty, but one of them is a little sad.

THE OLD AND NEW

She has a sweetheart, Henri, and he must go so often to France—every year he goes, and when he comes back there is always a reason why he cannot fit the wedding day, and some of the neighbors wonder if it is all business that takes him to France, or—

At St. Martinville there is an old church, a very old church, and in its records there is a will and in the will the man who made it gives so many arrears of land to his heirs and introduces to have and to hold forever.

And there be with to them, too, and at the end of the will he entreats the soul of his loved one to live after him to remain loyal to their faith, and he says at the very end: "I seal this will with my tears."

Further a sentimental old party, the do something or other who made this will long ago to the tune of the beating of the surf upon the shores. And since he has gone the king to whom he swore fealty and all his line of him have vanished from the earth forever, and all his line are dead and their descendants are free men.

But sometimes I wonder if we are, any of us, very much happier today than he was with his sentiment and his tears and his loved ones and his bitter hates—with our sorrow-heated exploitation and our cynical laughter at all ends.

A beautiful country it is where the Cajuns live and laugh and sing and eat and drink and love and marry and cherish their children in the old simple way, with the beach prize, juggling from one village to another in the old-fashioned beggy and giving them his love.

A SWEET OLD STORY

No wonder they cling so to their homes, that the authorities had to come at the time of the great flood and pull them from the roofs of their houses almost with violence.

DON'T BUTCHER CHICKENS IN KITCHEN

HOUSTON HAILS MAYOR WALKER AS 'REAL GUY'

By ROLAND KREBS,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

Houston, Tex., June 26.—They're rolled up the sidewalks of New York and rolled them in Houston.

Follow the crowd and you'll find that the crowd is following Jimmy Walker, the mayor of New York, the son of Al Smith and, since he arrived here, the pal of the city, Jimmy's pal, the city.

Jimmy's pal, the city, is called "a guy." In another week the Governor of South Carolina probably will be calling the Governor of North Carolina "a guy."

Houston knew Jimmy was coming and, having heard that he was a "guy," it was prepared to take him like him, too. No comparison was necessary. Houston only likes Jimmy Walker because he is a "guy."

THEY ALL LIKE JIMMY.

The Mayor was a trial several hands, women's organization among them, vied to surround him on the sidewalk from the lobby of the hotel. The Mayor appeared, late as usual—and the southerners here liked it. They must have, for they cheered him all the while, shouting, "Icing and icing and icing."

After good mathematics could have proved to you that the crash of people in the lobby never in the world could have jammed them, they were still in the warmer machine. The mob proved that machine mathematics can be wrong.

Everyone tried to get something out of him. They were all looking for a good mathematics could have proved to you that the crash of people in the lobby never in the world could have jammed them, they were still in the warmer machine. The mob proved that machine mathematics can be wrong.

After being shouted, pushed, stamped and banged around for an hour by what some said has termed "good-mannered crowd," Mayor Walker said he'd like to visit the 18th floor and cool off.

Elevator after packed elevator wheeled past—blinded. The Mayor waited for 20 minutes, waiting a copy, glowing forehead.

"Why not wait up to Floor 21," suggested, "take an elevator going down and return to get me where we hit the lobby. Then we'll be first in when it goes up."

"Just to show you how innocent I am, let's go," Jimmy said, snatching his fingers.

When the lift door opened the lift operator was propped up at the number of persons appearing in the distinguished New Yorker.

"It's all right; these are all my relatives," the Mayor assured him. Jimmy was the only person in Houston who enjoyed the jammed elevator situation in the city.

"Where is today?" in order of the classified New Yorker, but they make a lot of it—called Houston.

Houston Population Floating in Heat

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAEZ
Copyright 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.
Houston, Tex., June 26.—Night now Houston has a floating population of 30,000 sinking delegates.

Smith has not changed his mind about liquor. He says it's still bad.

We have watched the opposing forces pull and tug around Houston and are now able to tell you the difference between a wet and dry. A wet is the man who picks up the case.

There are always sure of a good deal of business in this town. If you don't get it off the Gulf you get it off Tom Meilin.

This convention will be less complicated now that Hoover has finally decided he is a Republican. He was a Democrat in 1924 and in 1924 he was a split delegate between the two parties.

The convention hall is the finest modern type of livestock cozier. The temperature is 74 degrees above normal. Sixteen delegates fainted when they said that some food had taken Noble off a cake of ice.

The last Democratic convention here took place in 1892. The last famous affair that a frankfurter was voted as an alternate delegate.

His Honor the Mayor was given a great reception at the station. He has developed a body squeak from making bows.

Reed's Stand Raises New Dry Questions

By EMILY NEWELL BLAIR,
Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee,
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.

Houston, June 26.—The prohibition fight is on. Senator Reed's statement of Sunday setting forth his ardent interest in law enforcement has changed the combatants' positions and raised new questions.

As the battleground looked last night there were lined up on the west side two candidates, Smith and Reed, one with a regiment and the other with a battalion behind him.

On the dry side there were a number of leaders each with a following. Some only with a squad. In the forefront of the line, Capt. Cordell Hull with half a company.

But now Senator Reed has abandoned the wet side and joined the white flag of law enforcement, urging and leaving the dry to enlist under it.

And this raises the question: Will the dry move up beside the Reed cohorts and accept him as their Moses? Or will the Smith forces join one better and by a still stronger movement for law enforcement march between the Reed forces and the dry, making them opponents to the latter to accept their leadership? Or will the dry close up their ranks and, under a house-dry leader, do battle on their own account?

Alabama Delegates Split
5 Ways; None for Smith

Houston, June 25 (AP)—Mr. C. C. Nicholas, chairman of the Alabama delegation, announced today that eight of the delegates from his state had decided to vote for George W. Goetz, on the first ballot, six for John T. Dineen, four for Donahay of Ohio, four for Jones of Texas, and two for Woodin of Indiana.

The delegates disclosed their first ballot intentions at a caucus held behind closed doors. They are not bound by the unit rule, are unincorporated and can support any candidate they desire.

The Smith forces had not counted on any of the 24 Alabama delegates, as generally was expected, they are anti-Smith.

THEY'LL 'THANK' JONES FOR
'MESSING UP' HOUSTON

Houston, June 25 (INS)—Texas is going to cast its votes for Jesse H. Jones. That's just a compliment to him in thanks for his services in bringing the convention to Houston. It seems he was the big man who did the work. Why Texans should thank him to thank him is puzzling. There's nothing ruins a town like a convention. It messes up traffic, crowds along and hotels and golf courses, makes a lot of racket, uses the food and liquor supply, and is just a nuisance to the home folks who are trying to lead orderly lives.

SMITH LEADERS ROOMING BAKER FOR 2D PLACE

Houston, June 26 (AP)—With a score or more candidates scrambling for a position before it, the vice-presidential spotlight shone upon Senator Robinson of Arkansas and the Democratic leader in the Senate.

Meanwhile, with new names still coming to the fore with newly arriving delegations, there arose a possibility that if Governor Smith were given the presidential nomination he would then the race for second place into a grand free-for-all with the selection to be made on the floor of the convention.

A smilike alliance has hovered over the late of Texas in Houston, from which have emerged other strong intimations that while Frank Woodson of Indiana and Newton F. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson, were favored by some of the Smith leaders, probably some of them were looking over the Robinson record.

At the same time there came still other reports that if their candidate should secure first place on the ticket he might request the convention to select his running mate in an open fight on the floor.

Newcomer Senator Charles McNary of the Central States and the West last night as delegates met yet looked at Houston last night launched new vice-presidential hopes for Representative Barker of Illinois and Richard V. Taylor, a member of the Internal Commerce Committee, and a former mayor of Mobile, Alabama.

Others, it was contended, had taken an active part in farm relief work and would do much to win farm votes into the Democratic column. The Taylor delegation came from the Arizona delegation. Amos Velts, chairman of the delegation, said that Taylor was in harmony with the views of Smith on prohibition enforcement.

Cordell Hull of Tennessee, still leader in the minds of many delegates today and others suggested Allen Purness of Ohio, or Governor Donahay of that State, as candidates who would strengthen the kick of the Democratic rule.

Other new candidates whose names appeared on the list yesterday for the first time included Senator Thump of Utah, who was backed by his home states, and Huston Thompson, a former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, whose proposal was countered by Colorado delegates.

PETERS WILL
SECOND SMITH

Houston, Texas, June 25 (AP)—The first assembling of the nomination of Gov. Alfred M. Smith of New York, former Mayor Andrew J. Peters of Boston will take the convention to add the endorsement of the Bay State and New England to the candidacy of New York's governor.

Mayor and Mrs. W. Quinn of Cambridge and Mrs. N. F. Sullivan of Fall River were selected by the Massachusetts delegates as members of the Democratic national committee.

Senator David I. Walsh, as expected, was selected chairman of the delegation, and also will go on the resolution committee. The caucus gave him a free hand, declining to instruct him as to the course to be pursued on the vexatious subject of prohibition.

The caucus of the Bay State delegates was delayed until late because of the late arrival of the so-called "Middle West" which came by way of Havana and Galveston and did not reach the convention city until after midnight.

Gov. Smith's "Middle West Special" was one of the spectacular events of the pre-convention activity.

Upon arrival at the Hotel Hotel, Gen. Cole, as the spokesman of the Smith forces in Massachusetts, went immediately to the mezzanine floor to report the arrival of 100 more delegates.

Gen. Cole, in a brief conference, but he spotted Gen. Cole across the room, and broke away to extend greetings.

Says Democrats Can Win by Fighting G. O. P. Corruption

By ALVA ADAMS,
Former Senator from Colorado and Joint Western Progressive
Written Exclusively for International News Service.

Houston, Tex., June 26.—The Democratic party can elect the next President of the United States and a Democratic Congress this year if it makes the good fight against a Republican corruption, for honesty in Government and for the law needed and Republican denied relief for agriculture.

The Democrats of the West do not regard prohibition as a party question. In Colorado, prohibition is a fact. The only problem is enforcing it. We are disposed to concede to every man his individual view as to the future of what Senator Hoover described as a "great experiment."

It is better that the Democrats maintain to enforce all laws, including the prohibition law, would be observed, regardless of its personal views as to the wisdom of the legislation. Consequently, we are not concerned as to the individual view of the candidate to be elected by the platform of his party and the each other.

I am quite sure that the record, which the Democratic President will make in the matter of prohibition enforcement, will compare favorably with the record of the present administration, which has not been at heart in its sympathy with prohibition and has placed at the head of its enforcement the most unscrupulous and dishonest of the greatest distillers of whiskey in America.

I am positive that distiller will be removed when the Democrats come to power next March 4 and a man in sympathy with prohibition, placed in charge of its enforcement.

NOT GUILTY, SAYS STEWART PERJURY TRIAL OCTOBER 8

Washington, June 26 (AP)—John W. Stewart, arrested in the trial of Columbia Supreme Court charged of perjury today, announced that he was innocent and sought an immediate hearing. Justice Frederick L. Johnson, seated at the trial, said the chairman of the board of the trial adjourning for a summer recess.

Standard Oil Company has placed its first available date was October 8. Stewart was released in 1909 and sought an immediate hearing. Justice Frederick L. Johnson, seated at the trial, said the chairman of the board of the trial adjourning for a summer recess.

MEMORIAL PLANS WELCOME TO GIRL PLIER

When following their arrival in New York Tuesday, July 10, or Wednesday, July 11, will probably be the last, however.

ALL SOCIETIES TO AID
Tentative plans for the memorial celebration will be outlined at a meeting in the mayor's office tonight of the city's chief executive and the general committee of the board of aldermen. President Michael J. O'Brien, James J. Nicholson and Frank J. Fuller, Jr.

The parts Miss Earhart's mother and sister will be asked to play in the memorial have not yet been outlined. Both Governor Fuller and Mayor Nichols will be asked to cooperate. The 41 organization involved in participating in the plans represent practically every social and civic organization in the city.

HUB WELCOME JULY 9.
Boston's reception is being planned definitely for July 9 and the City Council has voted—without preliminary discussion of the treatment they received during the B-2 crash—offer reception—no appropriate $10,000 for the celebration cost.

The plans include reception at the airport, a luncheon, a meeting with the federated women's organizations, decorated floats, a parade, a dinner and a summer meeting on Boston Common.

Miss Earhart Buys Moth Plane From Lady Heath

London, June 26 (AP)—Lady Heath, famous British aviatrix, disclosed today that Miss Amelia Earhart had purchased the light biplane in which Lady Heath flew down 11,000 miles from South Africa to London.

Miss Earhart will bring the plane to her lack of flying experience and use it in connection with a lecture tour. Lady Heath is anxious to recall the final moment of the plane and it is understood that she has made an agreement to buy it back later.

Miss Earhart is willing to sell Lady Heath's plane to visit the United States in the autumn.

Miss Earhart had pleasant words for American newspaper men in London. After a luncheon in her honor today by the Association of American Newspaper Men, she gave them a little talk.

On her way to the luncheon she met Bill Tilden, the American tennis star. They exchanged congratulations and Miss Earhart told Tilden that she hoped he would win the Wimbledon tournament.

8 BOYS A MAN
DIE IN BLAST

Thompsonville, Ct., June 26 (AP)—Four persons were killed instantly at 213 E. in today when an engine building owned by the New England Fireworks Manufacturing Company on Brainerd rd. blew up.

The dead are: Joseph A. Avallone, 46, his brother, John, 11; Rosario Barro, 43, and William Pomeroy, 19. Employees of the concern claim there was a fifth man in the party near the shed when it blew up, but because of the condition of the bodies it was hard to determine identification of the possible fifth.

An engine used by an automobile containing three boys and two men drove to the building shortly before the explosion. Efforts are being made to determine the identity of the other boy, who, it is feared, lost his life in the explosion.

The concussion was heard in Thompsonville Center two and a half miles away, and brought calls to police from hundreds of residents seeking information. Selectman Edward Bromage took charge and immediately started an investigation. The cause of the explosion has not been determined. Peter Napoli, son of Springfield, president of the New England Fireworks Manufacturing Company, said the probable cause was the use of the engine in a building or that one of the party was carrying out a box of powder and accidentally dropped it.

THREE'S NEW SUITS TO EX'

Attorney Robert H. Schulz, who was counsel for Mrs. Helen C. Hartford of Brookline when Barn C. J. Hartford obtained a divorce from her, and who himself later married her, appeared for her at another trial today in Judge's Probate Court.

Schulz was associate counsel for his wife in the trial of her petition asking that Hartford, a Boston insurance broker, be added in contempt for failing to comply with a court order that he pay $10 a week for the support of their 19-year-old daughter Jacqueline.

Judge John C. Legee dismissed the petition, ruling that court had no evidence that Hartford had willfully disobeyed the court's order.

Atty. Walter E. Lewis, who represented Hartford, declared his client was being persecuted by the former Mrs. Hartford and her present husband.

Hartford was granted a divorce in 1924, following a series of dramatic trials, in which Schulz was counsel for the wife. In the last trial Hartford testified his wife had admitted she had more love for a man named John A. Todd than she had for him.

In 1922, Mrs. Hartford brought separate support proceedings, charging that she was being hit with a dog whip. He testified it was his wife who administered the beating upon him.

At the conclusion of the final trial Hartford was at first granted the custody of the daughter, but later he lost her.

Mrs. Schulz, in her petition, contended that Hartford was ordered by the court to pay $10 a week for the support of the girl, and that he was doing so.

Atty. Lewis said the court had heard his wife's story, and that the thing for his daughter's support which she was out of the state, and that she was spending most of her time at a camp in New Hampshire and hopelessly riding in New York state. Judge Legee, in his finding, ruled that Hartford was doing so.

At any time, as he is doing, he is to visit the United States in the autumn.

Miss Earhart had pleasant words for American newspaper men in London. After a luncheon in her honor today by the Association of American Newspaper Men, she gave them a little talk.

1 DEAD, 2 INJURED, ELEVATOR PLUNGE

Lawrence, June 26—George Levesque of Broadway was instantly killed and two other men were critically injured today in a four-story plunge of a freight elevator in the eight-story newspaper plant, B-2.

The two injured, whose names are on the danger list at Lawrence General Hospital, are George Babo of 400 E. and Daniel Lyons of 400 E. Babo suffered two broken legs, internal injuries and multiple bruises. Lyons' injuries were sufficient to check his name on the danger list.

The three men are employed by the Globe House of Amherst st. and were riding up in the freight elevator to remove mail and had water paper from the plant. When at the third floor, the cable was cut and tested and pulled by 20 men and the elevator fell to the basement.

MAN HELD FOR TRYING TO SMUGGLE WOMAN INTO U. S.

St. Albans, Vt., June 26 (AP)—Samuel Tuzitsky of Philadelphia was arrested today charged with attempting to smuggle Eva Sassin, a young woman, into the United States. The woman, who was booked as an undesirable alien, had posed as his wife.

Tuzitsky and the woman were removed from the 14 passengers removed from excursion trains here Sunday morning. She was taken to the country more than a year ago through Buffalo and admitted at Philadelphia since she will be deported.

MAKES AL DO THE PHONING

When he had to leave his companions. After a month on the ice the general had a long, bad cold and his cheeks were hollow with he was incapacitated by his broken leg.

Having saved Noble, Lieut. Lundborg decided to start out again to rescue the rest of the party. He intended to bring the Italian, one by one, to the base ship Quest, but his second landing, close to the Noble camp, his plans turned over and his skills were smashed. He was not hurt.

DOG TEAM ON WAY.
During the fight to the Noble camp, the Swedish aviators observed a dog team headed in his direction. The plane circled over the party and learned that the Malmgren group was not there.

The main train line to Boston from New York and Chicago were put out of commission, but after an hour the telephone company had restored this service.

Other lines burned out were the burglar and fire alarm wires of the American District Telegraph, and the private company hurriedly sent special policemen on the streets in Cambridge, especially in the banking district, to provide the guarantee.

This service and the telephone company's service, including business office printing machines and super bus printing service, were out of order several hours.

The fire occurred in the last room of a three-story building. With in a short time, 60 firemen were at work and this crew was later increased to 75.

BLUE HILL AVE. REPAIRING IS ORDERED BY COUNCIL

The repairing of Blue Hill ave. between Beaver st. and Tebbot ave. was ordered by the City Council in passing a $50,000 loan order for this work. The money was to be paid to the city by the City Council.

Parman, Jr. of the Blue Hill ave. project, who had been charged that the money for repairing streets should come out of the budget instead of through plans for the improvement of the city.

Italian Government Is 'Displeased' by Noble Rescue

Rome, June 25 (NS)—There indications today that the Italian government is not entirely pleased because Gen. Umberto Noble as he is known to be rescued first from the ice by the Arctic.

The government's action is a red flag asking Gen. Noble to forward immediately a report of the disaster to the Italian and the subsequent events including the rescue.

Contrary to Noble's plan to assume direction of further rescue work the government announced that it will remain in charge of Commander Romagnoli of the super ship Città di Milano.

The planes landed near Hinesport Bratt where they renewed their gasoline supply from stores established there and then proceeded directly for Noble's camp off North-east Land.

They were directed to the camp by wireless, since it had been found on previous flights that it would be impossible to see the camp if visual directions were used over the ice.

LANDS RESCUE PLANE.
From the air, Lieut. Lundborg discovered a landing place on the ice plain measuring 200 yards by 200 yards and on the plain made a skillful landing close to the little red tent in which the Noble party has been living for the last month.

The lieutenant spent one hour on the ice plain, and then he and his men took leave of his five companions with whom he had shared 20 days of privation and hardship. Meanwhile the other two Swedish men had been over the camp. Gen. Noble was deeply touched and wept.

PAID TO TO GO TO VAIN NAMEE

Houston, June 25 (AP)—That Governor Smith will be nominated on the first ballot was suggested today by George H. Van Namee, manager of his activities. It was Van Namee's first effort to forecast, specifically the action not the Democratic convention.

"The logic of events and the general feeling that prevails," said the Smith manager, "indicates that Smith's popularity is so great that it is doubtful, even if his managers wished, that they could delay his nomination beyond the first ballot."

Van Namee was confident, he said, that there will be no serious contest at the convention over the party has a great chance to win and no chances will be taken of placing that opportunity in jeopardy.

"Every delegate knows that he must leave here with good feeling prevailing," he said.

Asked as to his idea of the time for the "race" to "hailings," Van Namee said he believed it would start Thursday.

"Immediately after Governor Smith will be heard," he said, "and certainly the convention will not hurry through this nomination."

The candidate might come from any section of the country, he replied to a query as to the possibility of the choice falling on a Southern man.

MRS. WILSON MAKES SPEAK
The candidate might come from the South as well as any other section but not for the reason that he would be needed to carry his state or any group of states.

Van Namee said he had not heard that a second speech for Governor Smith would be made by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

It would be very gracious of Mrs. Wilson to second the nomination," Van Namee said, "but we have not been advised that she will do so. There will be about six brief second speeches."

The Smith manager thought the platform would be worked out with great difficulty and no fight. Senator Robert G. Wagner, New York's representative on the resolution, said he had a number of conferences today with others interested in framing the platform.

FIRE CRIPPLES WIRE SERVICE

Telegraph service in Boston was seriously affected for hours today by a fire at the main Western Union office on Congress st., where the building caused a short-circuit.

One of the most serious results was the elimination of Associated Press telegraph printer service to Boston newspapers. The press association replaced this service with its own telegraph printer service.

The main train line to Boston from New York and Chicago were put out of commission, but after an hour the telephone company had restored this service.

Other lines burned out were the burglar and fire alarm wires of the American District Telegraph, and the private company hurriedly sent special policemen on the streets in Cambridge, especially in the banking district, to provide the guarantee.

By JACK CONWAY

AL MELLO TITLE IN DANGER

England welterweight champion will have to win at Fenway when he clashes with Billy Murphy in a 10-round bout at the Arena Club's opening boxing show at Fenway Park tonight.

It is expected that a crowd of 10,000 cheering fans will be jammed into the grandstand and in the seats on the ground when Mello and Murphy enter the ring to settle the welterweight title.

The bout is a real battle, meeting between two little fellows who possess real class.

Mello is a tall, rangy fellow, while Murphy is a cool, calculating boxer who has won a band of elgins.

The bout has been making the ever since Mello wrestled the New England welterweight championship from Eddie Shavels at Mechanics Building two years ago last December.

Mello has used every device in the boxing game to avoid a meeting with his home town hero. He was anxious to pick in every one of the youth with an eye on a featherweight bout between Honeyboy Finnegan, who as a lightweight polished off Johnny Indefatigable and who as a welterweight is a real Jack.

Maybe if Mello had come from some other city, he would have been a real contender.

Donahue has been in the more of home town rivalries, the feeling is always bitter. The boys value a victory more than anything else.

Mello seems a slight favorite in the betting, although he is the champion of his home town.

Along with the title bout in any fight until such time as he goes down to defeat.

Murphy has strong backing among persons who are in line for a fight with him. He is a real contender.

Any Mello win will be a real victory for the home town.

REAL LOWELL SPINDLE

MELLO'S TITLE IN DANGER

Billy Murphy, built like a bean pole, looks too weak to draw a deep breath. But he's a tough, brainy scrapper, with plenty of stuff. Lots of fans like him to win at Fenway tonight.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

WRESTLING has arrived as a major sport in New England, said Mr. Boston today. "If you want proof of this statement, drop around to Paul Bowser's office and get a peek at the fans waiting in line to purchase tickets for the Lewis-Sonnenberg world's heavyweight championship wrestling bout which will be staged at the Arena on Friday night."

"It is the first time in the history of the oldest inhabitant when there have been more than two or three persons seeking to buy tickets to a wrestling match at the same time. When I dropped into Bowser's office today, I saw 35 fans securing their seats."

"MAY appear crazy," Bowser said to me, "but inside of a year, wrestling shows will draw $750,000 in Boston. I expect to promote such attractions. Lewis and Sonnenberg will get $40,000. If I had the seating capacity at the Arena, this show would top $50,000. The people of New England are for first class wrestling shows 100 per cent."

"I'm going to give Paul a hand, boys. I believe he is entitled to the credit for putting wrestling over in Boston as New England."

When Bowser first came here, he was obliged to battle the so-called "Boston Trust." He did so and liked it. He made his success by defeating local talent. The sensational Sonnenberg is one of the "bros" in Bowser's machine.

"A week ago a group of would-be wrestling promoters staged a show at Mechanics Building and drew less than $100. Bowser's annual show at the Grand Opera House always drew more than this, while his promoters have had the well-known 'sky' as the limit. Against the public has confidence in Bowser and the kind of shows he puts on. He is not showing shop-worn wrestlers, but is giving the fans the best."

"There are thousands of fans who have an idea that Sonnenberg is a flying tackle with knock Lewis from his championship ring on Friday night. If it does, Sonnenberg will close up half a million dollars within a year. Jack Dempsey, he gives action, and as to a tremendous box office attraction."

"LEWIS is one of the greatest wrestlers to ever step on the mat. He will require all of his wits and if he is to offset the aggressive moves and courage of Sonnenberg, Dynamite believes that a man who won't be beaten cannot be beaten. Righto."

"THE Merrimack valley will move into Boston tonight. The Mello Murphy bout for the welterweight championship of New England has the Merrimack valley folks by the ears. It is a natural fight and will prove a fitting opening for Cal. Bob McKing's Arena Club at Fenway Park."

"THE Ironworks will continue at Bob Quinn's baseball orchard on Wednesday when the Sox come marching home to tackle the Braves. The Carriers showed they possess a real punch when they thumped the Yankees in a twin bill on Saturday."

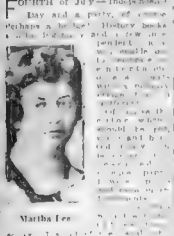

"MORRIS, Ruffner, McFadden and Russell. There's 75 per cent of your answer for Red Sox success. A ball club has to have the fingers if it is going to get anywhere."

Children's Eyesight

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M.D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

Youngsters who are nearsighted, farsighted, or have astigmatism should have their eyes examined by a specialist. Early treatment can prevent vision from becoming permanently impaired.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

One of the most common causes of vision impairment in children is lack of proper nutrition. A diet rich in vitamins and minerals is essential for healthy eyes.

Another common cause is prolonged exposure to bright light or screens. Children should take regular breaks from these activities.

'Little Sins,' Katherine Brush's Story

By KATHERINE BRUSH

When I was a child, I was a very mischievous girl. I had a lot of 'little sins' that I was proud of. I would play pranks on my friends and family, and I would get into all sorts of trouble. But I never felt ashamed of my misdeeds. I was just a little girl, and I was doing what I thought was fun.

One day, I was playing in the yard and I found a small, shiny object. I picked it up and looked at it closely. It was a diamond! I was so excited that I ran to my mother and showed her. She was very surprised and told me that it was a real diamond. I was so happy that I had found it.

pink—and a strutting walk. The girl expressed him. It said very plainly, 'I'm Katherine Brush. I've got a lot of money. I started on a shoe string and made it myself, and I could buy this night club if I wanted to.'

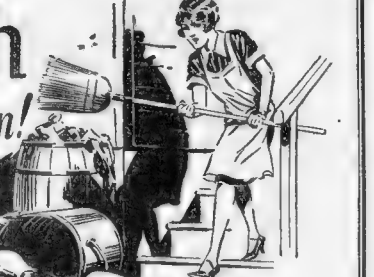

Days and months crept by. Her lashes dropped down, veiling the brilliant eyes in her dark eyes. She tapped her cigarette on the gleaming glass ash tray, continued to tap it long after the ashes had fallen from its end.

'Never,' she said to herself, 'I'd take in washing form.'

Curly's hair was at the table of the play bridge was not hot. When the hand I'd laid the first hand of a game, I turned and returned and commanded her to stand with them. They seemed to follow me as I went.

'I was talking to Tallon,' said Curly. 'He said, "Hire a hall for me or not?" (This to a girl who was a hall for me or not?)' 'I was talking to Tallon,' said Curly. 'He said, "Hire a hall for me or not?" (This to a girl who was a hall for me or not?)'

Barish the Garbage Can!

An ugly, filth-dripping, foul-smelling garbage can... it should be a relic of the past!

What right has it about any modern home... to attract germ-carrying flies and vermin... to be fought over and turned over by stray dogs and alley cats... to stay where children play?

Be rid of this nuisance... with a gas-fired INCINERATOR in the basement, you can quickly, safely and sanitariously burn your garbage from day to day.

And not only that... you know the rubbish which accumulates in catch-all corners, where six out of every ten fires originate... two or three bushels of such trash can be reduced to a handful of clean, sterilized ashes in one burning.
